Dupion takes its name from a rare, textured silk imperfect, luminous, and deeply rooted in Jaipur's legacy as a city of weavers and traders.

Inspired by the ancient Silk Route, this menu is a journey across continents and centuries. Each cocktail is woven from the flavours that once travelled with caravans tea, spices, fruits, flowers, herbs, nuts and fermentations, moving from the courts of China through the deserts of Central Asia, the markets of Persia, and the spice ports of India, before reaching the wider world.

Much like the Silk Route itself, these drinks blend cultures, techniques, and ingredients that were never meant to stay in one place.

Every sip carries a story: of merchants, monks, nomads and kings, of bustling bazaars and quiet caravanserais, of silk, spice and shared discovery.

At Dupion, cocktails are not just crafted, they are woven.

TRUFFLE TROUBLE

Truffle infused Tanqueray london dry, Campari, Pine Vermouth, Balsamic & Strawberry foam.

850++

Born at the crossroads of appetite and ambition, this Negroni imagines a night somewhere between Persia and the Italian courts, where merchants unrolled silks by lantern light and deals were sealed over drinks that lingered longer than the conversation.

SAFFRON SILK

Saffron Ketel One vodka , Tomato, Pear Liqueur, Acid Blend, Basil.

850++

Along the Silk Route, saffron was never measured casually. A handful could buy passage, protection, or silence. Saffron Silk is an ode to that kind of elegance, rare, deliberate, and effortlessly assured.

TOASTED FASHION

Millard milk Johnnie Walker Black label, Sweet Vermouth, Plum syrup, Walnut Bitter, Pine wood.

850++

This is a drink made for the quiet edges of travel, when the road disappears into darkness, maps are folded away, and the only certainty is the fire in front of you. Toasted Fashion invites stillness, asking you to linger where movement briefly gives way to reflection.

GREAT INDIAN JULEP

Dewars 12 yrs, Bacardi White, Gondhoraj Sacchaum, Assam Tea, Bitters, Mint.

850++

Along inland trade roads and monsoon-fed corridors, travellers relied on cooling infusions, mint, herbs, tea, and spice to counter heat, fatigue, and dust. This is a drink imagined under a slow-moving fan, in the deep shade of a courtyard where time bends.

SALTY SALUTE

Patron Silver, Grapefruit Soda, Hibiscus Cordial, Mathania Salt

850++

Salty Salute belongs to the shoreline , to moments before sails are raised and routes are chosen again. It is a drink shaped by salt on the skin, wind in the lungs, and the quiet understanding that every crossing begins with letting land fall away.

We levy a 7% service charge.*

FRIENDLY FIRE

Don Julio Blanco, Lime, Spicy Honey, Sea-buckthorn, Coriander.

Markets, ports, and rest points were places of compression, where languages overlapped, tempers flared, and alliances were forged as quickly as they were tested. It is a drink shaped by intensity, adaptation, and the understanding that connection along the route was never gentle, only negotiated.

UMAMI CUT

Tanqueray London Dry , Soy & Sichuan Cordial, acid blend, Sesame oil, Akarkara tincture.

850++

As goods moved east to west and back again, certain flavours proved indispensable. These flavours did not converge at a single moment or place. They layered over centuries, meeting in markets, kitchens, and caravanserais where practicality guided taste.

SMOKE N STONE

Apricot Bushmil, Acid , Charred Pineapple ginger water, Pineapple & ginger sachhrum, Smoky Whisky.

850++

Along the Silk Route, stone and fire shaped both landscape and taste. From the rocky passes of Central Asia to the fortified caravanserais that marked its arteries, travellers learned quickly that fruit, smoke, and spice endured where freshness could not.

SECRET WHISPERER

Bombay Sapphire, Lemon, Yuzu Juice, Umeshu, Stillabunt.

850++

Umeshu circulated not as bulk trade, but as a considered exchange, often gifted, carried in small quantities, and shared in intimate settings. Its flavour profile sits deliberately between sour and sweet, designed to linger rather than announce itself.

PEACH PLEASE

Grey Goose Vodka, Peach, Saline, Citric, Palo santo.

850++

Stone fruit travelled the Silk Route long before it became shorthand for sweetness. Peaches were cultivated, grafted, and carried across vast stretches of Central Asia, valued as much for their fragrance as for their flesh. It is a composition shaped by routes that moved orchards, aromas, and ideas of refinement across continents and centuries.

NUT & NUANCE

Creyente Mezcal, Bianco vermouth, Pinot noir, Pandan, Celery, Orange Bitters.

850++

The Silk Route was never a closed system; it expanded as the world did, absorbing new routes, new spirits, and new ways of understanding flavour. Ingredients from distant regions began to converse in unexpected ways. Together, these elements speak to a later, more interconnected phase of trade.

SILKING THE HEAT

At Dupion, we've taken Jaipur's favourite and woven it into our world. Four fruits, four personalities, each layered with silk-like texture, Jaipur warmth, and four distinct expressions of spice. Because in a city known for craft, colour, and conversation, one Picante simply isn't enough.

CLASSIC COCKTAILS

Before routes branched and ingredients travelled, there were drinks that stayed put. Built on balance, repetition, and trust, classic cocktails emerged from bars where consistency mattered more than invention. These recipes survived because they worked, night after night, city after city, adapting quietly to what was available while holding their structure intact. In a menu shaped by movement and exchange, the classics sit here as anchors: familiar forms that remind us where technique began, and why some combinations never needed to change.
